

Following a week of no on-track action; HRP Lochgelly Raceway will burst back into life this weekend with two fantastic events as part of three days of racing in Fife!

Friday June 24th sees the latest Friday Nights Under the Lights event featuring the 1300 Stock Cars, Ministox, CC Rods and Ninja Karts.

Scotland's top stock car formula, the HRP 1300 Stock Cars, are back in action for the first time since their bruising European Championship Weekend (In Support of St Andrews Hospice) which saw England's Ian Beaumont take home the big prize but the local drivers were right in the mix with the likes of Ryan McGill, Jason Secker, Lee McGill and Eddie Corr all picking up some good results along the way. Outgoing National Points Champion Zak Gilmour finally got his Tigra B on the pace after months of gremlins and could be one to watch!

Youth will be to the fore this Friday night as we host our two Junior formulas in the shape of the Ninja Karts and the Ministox. The 6-11 year olds in their Ninja Karts have been in great form this year and we are proud to boast both the European Champion (Declan Honeyman) and the British Champion (Charlie Hardie) in our ranks. These two drivers plus the likes of Robbie Armit and Ethan Doull will be challenging for wins but keep an eye on Jay Paterson who scored a whites and yellows win plus a heat victory last time out. The 11-16 year olds will also be on hand in the Ministox. Ciaran Adams will be back in his newer car most likely after a spectacular rollover last time here while Euan Millar and Steven Burgoyne will resume their personal battle. Keep an eye on the likes of Terri Linden and Gary Paterson who have impressed this year as they climb the grades.

The final formula on show may be a new one to many weekend visitors as HRP's CC Rods complete the line-up. The low budget, non-contact formula have been in scintillating form so far in 2016 and have produced some great racing and no small amount of controversy! Ian Walle Jr leads the points but the likes of Paul Muir and Ian Donaldson Jr are well within striking distance at the top of the charts. Do not miss the CC Rods.

Sunday June 26th will see another huge international event at HRP Lochgelly Raceway as the mighty BriSCA F1 Stock Cars make only their second appearance at Scotland's most-modern short oval motorsports facility. With World Champion Rob Speak leading the entry plus the likes of British Champion Frankie Wainman Jr, Matt Newson, Craig Finnikin and Stuart Smith all heading north as part of an entry of almost forty cars; it promises to be an unmissable event.

The BriSCA F1 Stock Cars can be seen regularly on Premier Sports and are regarded by many as the premier short oval formula. Each car weighs well over a 1000kg and boast huge power from massive V8 engines. The noise, colour and spectacle of the F1s is unmatched and unparalleled by any other motorsport and Scottish fans will be looking to local hopes Paul Ford and Stuart Shevill Jr for a home win. Shevill in particular has enjoyed some great form of late as he won several heats at the British Championship two weeks ago before landing his first ever feature final win at Ipswich last Saturday.

The F1 Stock Cars will be joined on their visit north by the incredible National Ministox. Arguably the top junior formula in England, the Ministox have produced some of the best racing action seen in recent months and another large entry will be taking to the HRP Lochgelly Raceway tarmac this Sunday. Led by National Champion Courtney Witts, another huge entry is expected and should put on a fantastic show in what is their second appearance in two years.

The HRP 1300 Stock Cars will also be back on track plus the Stoxkarts will be making a rare Scottish appearance in what should be a thrilling conclusion to the first half of the 2016 HRP Season.

All in all, a cracking weekend is in prospect at HRP Lochgelly Raceway with some great domestic action plus the lure of an all too rare visit from some of the UK's premier formulas. The action gets underway at 6:30pm on Friday and 12:30pm on Sunday.
